

HACIENDA SAN AGUSTÍN DE CALLO

One and a quarter hours from Quito, capital of Ecuador, stands the beautiful and little known colonial Hacienda of San Agustín de Callo. Built on the site of an Inca palace, one of the two most important archaeological Inca sites in Ecuador.

LOCATION

Lasso, Province of Cotopaxi, Ecuador, 77 km. South of Quito on the Panamerican Highway. 5km. off the highway and close to the entrance to Cotopaxi National Park.

The house stands at 9.857 ft (3000 mts.) above sea level. One-and-a-half-hour drive from Quito.

Temperate climate all year; more wind during summer months.

ACCOMMODATION

We have three types of lodging:

- Inca House: this is the main house and has five rooms, two suites with adjoining living rooms and three standard double rooms, all the rooms have king size beds, ensuite bathrooms and fireplaces in all the bedrooms and in several of the bathrooms.
- Callo Lodge: this charming house is set slightly apart from the Inca House. It has a cozy sitting room, fireplace and kitchen; music, books and cable TV available and wonderful views all around.
- Cotopaxi House: A short distance away from the Inca House is Cotopaxi House. Both suites offer independent sitting rooms with sofa beds, music, books, cable TV and views of Cotopaxi and surrounding mountain ranges. These suites have two bathrooms: the main bathroom has a jacuzzi with shower and the social bathroom has a shower.
